123 Americans Are Killed In War Last Week

SAIGON 26 — A U.S. military spokesman today said 944 American servicemen were killed, wounded, missing or captured in Vietnam war action last week. Of that number 123 were killed. The week's action raised to 6,978 the number of Americans killed in the war.

BULLETIN

SAIGON 26 — U.S. troops using tear gas, high explosives and flame throwers today cleared out a massive granite cave fortress where North Vietnamese soldiers had held women and children hostages and murdered an American officer when he tried to save the civilians.

978 the number of Americans killed in the war. The spokesman said 716 Americans were wounded and five were missing or taken prisoner.

Many of the casualties came during Operation Cedar Falls, the war's most massive push, that drove through the Communists' Iron Triangle jungle sanctuary about 20 miles north-northwest of Saigon.

The number of casualties however fell from the previous week when 144 Americans were killed and 1,094 wounded.

The U.S. spokesman also reported that during the week which ended Jan. 21 American troop strength in South Vietnam reached 400,000, an increase of about 2,000 over the previous week.

There also was the first report of troops in Communist hands in six months. The spokesman said the number of Communist troops rose from 280,000 to 281,000.

The number of soldiers now missing or captured by Communists stands at 485, the spokesman said. Many were reported to be U.S. fliers downed over North Vietnam.

Last week 1,683 North Vietnamese or Viet Cong were killed, the spokesman said. This meant that 35 Communists were killed for every allied soldier slain, he said.

Last week 340 South Vietnamese troops were killed. The Saigon government did not report the number of its troops wounded.

Highway Signs May Have To Be Removed

Highway billboards in Calloway County on Highway 641 are 8-9-miles the 3,349 that may have to be removed in the Kentucky Highway Department's First District under the Federal highway beautification act.

The district highway engineer, Jack Gray, said a survey team counted that many signs which would not comply with the law in a study of primary roads in the district's 12 counties.

Signs on highways 60, 62, 63, 64, 80, 440, 45, and 51 in the counties of McCracken, Ballard, Carlisle, Calloway, Crittenden, Fulton, Graves, Hickman, Livingston, Lyon, Marshall, and Trigg are included in those that may have to be removed.

Highway 641 is the only one of those highways in Calloway County. Under the law billboards closer than 600 feet from the center of the highway must be removed. If the signs are on private property, and all of these in the First District are, the state, using mostly federal funds, must move the signs. Gray said an estimate of the cost connected with the project has not been completed.

A two car accident occurred Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. on West Main Street, but no injuries were reported, according to the report filed by Patrolman H. E. Wilson of the Murray Police Department. Involved in the accident were Edmund Andrew Morris, Eddyville, driving a 1963 Ford Falcon two door, and Jeffrey A. Moler was proceeding east on Main Street, stopped or slowed for a right turn, when the rear of his car behind him pulled out and passed. Morris was proceeding east behind the two cars. Jehovah's Witnesses Plan Film At Meeting

"Youth's Heritage — How Can We Improve It?" is the title of a film that will be shown at the circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses on Friday, January 27 at the National Guard Armory in Dixon, Tennessee.

"With the many problems parents have today, one is their children adjusting to adult life, yet they can do it successfully," a spokesman said. "The change from youth to adulthood normally brings new experiences and problems, it is as though they are entering an unfamiliar world. Still some young folks are capable of making sound decisions, while others have difficulties. This is understandable as adults faced with certain problems feel lost at times."

Jehovah's Witnesses in the Murray area are looking forward to seeing the film and other Bible instruction they will receive at the assembly in Dixon.

Weather Goes On Rampage; Rain, Snow, Tornado

by United Press International

The nation was a contrast in winter storms today as another major snowstorm struck the midlands and a tornado touched down in Oklahoma.

Freezing rain made driving hazardous in a dozen states from the southwest to the Ohio Valley and pea-soup fog blanketed four eastern states.

The new snowstorm produced up to eight inches of snow at Kirksville, Mo., six at Kansas City and St. Joseph and caused the closing of schools in southeast Iowa.

Rob Parker, EMI (USNR), Paducah, has been named the most outstanding petty officer of the Naval Reserve unit at Paducah.

Parker, who was selected by 61 petty officers, entered the Navy in July of 1960 and graduated from electrician school in 1961. He also served in the Korean conflict for 23 months.

Parker was discharged in 1963 and enlisted in the reserve unit at Paducah. He is a unit operator at the Shawnee Steam Plant now.

Parker's wife, the former Miss Wanda Burks of Murray, works in a photo laboratory. He has two children, Mike 12 and Robin 6. He is a member of IBEW Local No. 816 and Camp 2 Woodmen of the World.

Homemakers Take Close Look At Work Over Period

This week a hundred and twenty eight women representing eighteen Homemakers clubs are taking a close look at the past two years' homemakers work in this county and area and projecting into the future the needs of the Homemakers of Calloway County.

These women represent chairmen of their clubs in foods, clothing, home furnishing, home management, family life, cultural development, and issues and concerns.

Each woman gives a report of the activities carried on in her club and recommendations for the future program.

This study is being made in order that the county chairman can better represent the Homemakers of Calloway County in an Area Program planning meeting to be held in Mayfield February 16. At this meeting area specialists and state specialists from the University of Kentucky will assist in an Area Program planning.

Those who will represent Calloway County are: Mrs. Wayne Hardie, foods; Mrs. Richard Armstrong, clothing; Mrs. Kenton Broach, family life; Mrs. Goldie Cudd, home management; Mrs. Howard C. Giles, home furnishing; Mrs. Max Hurt, issues and concerns; and Mrs. James Fee, cultural development.

Willard Ails President Of State Group

Willard Ails of Murray was elected the new president. He took office on this day and conducted the meeting.

George Greider, the National President-elect of the American Pharmaceutical Association, was the guest speaker.

Clark's River Included In LBJ Budget

The president's budget message to congress for the Army Corps of Engineers for the fiscal year 1968 includes a $21,000 request for general investigations on the Clark's River basin, according to Congressman Frank A. Stubblefield.

The District Engineer in Nashville, has assured Congressman Stubblefield that general procedures have already been devised for conducting the necessary study designed to eliminate floods of moderate intensity on the East and West forks and to reduce the status of larger floods as soon as funds are made available to the Corps of Engineers.

"The president's recommendation for the needed funds is a big step toward gaining congressional approval for which I am working", Stubblefield said. "The proposed project will provide flood protection that can best be accomplished by channel improvements on East fork, West fork and main stem of Clark's River and would extend from the mouth of the river to the vicinity of Murray on the East fork to about two miles north of the Marshall-Calloway County line on the West fork."

A BIT FROM THE BIBLE

By GEORGE M. LANDIS

By Geo. M. Landis
Text: "As it is written, The just shall live by faith" (Rom. 1:17).

There are encouragements for the life of faith. First, there is a sympathizing Father. The Lord Jesus said concerning the "temporal necessities" of life: "Your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things."

We can fully trust the future to this Father of infinite love.

A second encouragement is that we have a seated Christ at God's right hand. His presence in the story is full proof that His redemptive work accomplished at the cross, is fully accepted by the Father. The high priest on earth was never seated for there was no chair in the Tabernacle. His work never completed. But our High Priest is seated in all the value of His finished work. He is now engaged in interceding for His own.

A third encouragement to faith is the sustaining Holy Spirit. He is the other Comforter whom the Lord Jesus promised to send, which promise was kept on the Day of Pentecost. The Holy Spirit now indwells all believers. To think that the omnipotent God makes our bodies His dwelling place! May we better cherish His precious leadings, not grieve Him by tolerating sin in the life.

The fourth encouragement is a certified Word, the Holy Scriptures.

Nurses Association Adopts Resolution

The Board of Directors of the Kentucky State Association of Licensed Practical Nurses, at its regular meeting on January 11, 1967, adopted a resolution to go on record to support $5,000.00 as a minimum annual salary for the licensed practical nurses in Kentucky, as duly set forth and adopted by the National Federation of Licensed Practical Nurses, at their convention in Los Angeles, California.

It further adopted the policy, as in the past, to go on record officially of the charge of 75% (seventy five per cent) of the daily or hourly rates of Registered Nurses in the area in Kentucky, for private duty.

Plans were also completed for the upgrading of the profession and for an officers workshop to be held on May 16, 1967, as well as a Rehabilitation Workshop sponsored and conducted by the Association with the assistance of Mrs. Doris Schmidt, R.N., and Mrs. Virginia Towles, Instructor, Kentucky Vocational Department, to be held on May 17, 1967, Lexington, Kentucky, Phoenix Hotel.

The pianist wrote, "Thy Word is true from the beginning," and, "Forever, O Lord, Thy Word is settled in heaven." The Lord Jesus said: Heaven and earth shall pass away, but My Words shall not pass away. "Thy Word of God has never been disproven and it never will be."

Stanley Darnell of the Coldwater area, does a nice job of road bank stabilization and beautification. The road bank has been seeded and tobacco stems hold the soil and fertilizer at the same time.

Stabilization Of Road Banks Saves Bank, Adds To Beauty

By Yandal Wrathe, Soil Conservation Service, USDA

About 4 million miles of roads in these United States are traveled daily by about 96 million automobiles and about 13 million trucks and buses. These roads are a part of the assembly line of industry, the conveyor belt of agriculture, the distribution chain of business and the very fabric of our daily living. One estimate is that 65 million acres of land required for these roads. You would have over 8 million miles of road sides to stabilize and beautify. Roadside erosion one of major sources of soil and water loss and contributes greatly to cost of road maintenance. Land scaping of roadside and right-of-way also gives greater safety and comfort as well as an attractive appearance.

You see increasing attention given roadside beautification by Bureau of Public Roads, State, County Highway Departments, and general public.

One billion dollars of 41 billion set up to build Interstate highways, ear marked for erosion control and land scaping of road sides of the 41 thousand miles of Interstate roads, a manifest of importance attached to road sides.

Roadside use to be dumping place for much of the population. Now no one wants to see road sides used to unload our waste.

People have come to value the economic and esthetic value of roadside improvement. We have no more remote and isolated road side suitable for filthy, roadside housekeepers.

Those one time thought of as remote and isolated places are now thought of as the most beautiful places in our Country.

Many farmers are cooperating with highway departments in stabilizing and beautifying roadside.

Local State Road Department, East and West Fork Clarks River Water shed Directors and Soil Conservation Service worked together recently in establishing cover on about three miles of road bank in County. Many Garden Departments, Civic Clubs, etc. have and are working on roadside beautification projects.

Critical areas just off of road right-of-way but visible from road are given more attention by ABC program, this year as part of beautification program. That part of farm might receive the critical practice treatment, thus receiving financial aid from ABC program and technical assistance from SCS program. Thus the conservation and development by land owners, County, State and Federal organization for an appropriate environment for motorist and for the community could be one good objective in a statement of policy for all people in Calloway County.

Miss Fonda Is Not Just A Plain Jane

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — It would be difficult for Miss Fonda to be Plain Jane.

There's too much delicacy of regalia features, a mass of honey blonde hair and the replica of her father's famous smile.

But Jane Fonda, daughter of Henry, is a plainly opinionated, young woman who states her views on anything from mini-skirts she loves them to the advantages of having an actor for a father if she is to make it in films she's not against nudity, but is against vulgarity and to that international list of best-dressed women "I'll never make it."

I interviewed the actress, now the wife of France's celebrated director Roger Vadim, just before the couple and his daughter, Natalie, by a previous marriage, flew to their Paris home. They'd been in the United States for openings of their latest film, "The Game Is Over."

Fling and Trees
"This movie's very important to me," said Miss Fonda. "It's the first full length film Vadim and I've done together."

Important to Jane and Roger, but the critics gave it mixed reviews, with the New York Times' Bosley Crowther commenting that "Miss Fonda is large attractive with her clothes off than with them on, which knocked out the only plus factor that Mr. Vadim might have had going for him."

"No one in particular" is her favorite clothes designer, she said, "but I do have some Chanel suits. . . I have a whole bunch of mini-skirts from Edith Head Hollywood designer."

"You think the skirts are short here, you should see them in Europe. A girl can't bent over," Miss Fonda wears leotards with her minis. I asked her what she thought of that annual list of best-dressed women. "I'll never make it," she said. "I think the whole thing's pretty boring. . . I know some women who work to get on that list. . . I can think of so much more interesting things to do."

Lots of Publicity
Miss Fonda has had quite a bit of notice from undress in films. She ordered that changes be made on a Times Square sign advertising one of her pictures and showing her with little more than a wisp of cloth covering. "My friends were against," said Miss Fonda. "There I was, two stories high and four blocks long. The whole thing was out of context with the picture."

In addition, she's taken action against one magazine which used some pretty bare shots of her from her current film—shots she said were made on the set without permission.

"I've never appeared nude in a photograph," said Jane Fonda. "I'm not against nudity per se. I am against bad taste and vulgarity."

Miss Fonda, the daughter of Fonda's second wife, the Frances Seymour, began to study acting with the Stanislavsky about 1958 and since has appeared on Broadway, on television and in a number of films.

Is it an advantage to have an actor-father?
"I've been asked that 20,000 times," she smiled. "The answer is, yes, it certainly is."

FARM BUREAU in Action

Teris Bennett
Kentucky Farm Bureau Fed.

Plagued with continued rising costs of production, farmers could find little encouragement in the President's State of the Union message with its mention of the need to spend and tax and tax.

There was nothing in the one hour and 15 minute speech to narrow the creditability gap between the American people and the Chief Executive as to the total spending budget for the coming fiscal year.

The image of an executive who talked of keeping federal expenditures under the $100 billion mark has long disappeared from the Washington scene.

A year ago, the administrative spending budget was estimated at $112.8 billion for fiscal 1967, and this is expected to be some $14 billion short of the mark.

In his State of the Union message, the President said that the spending budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 would be $135 billion and that estimated income would run $126.9 billion, assuming Congress passes the six percent surcharge tax. This would leave a deficit of $8.1 billion.

Based on the record of the Administration's past estimates and forecasts, those figures have little if any real meaning in any serious consideration of the government's actual fiscal position.

Even if the Administration's budget figures could be taken at face value, the Johnson policy of deficit spending and refusal to make any cuts in non-defense expenditures, can only mean more inflation.

Continued inflation spells further increases in production costs for operating farmers, and further slashes in the buying power of the dollar of everyone, including those living on pensions and income from savings.

"GIBSON GIRL" IS DEAD — Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the original "Gibson Girl" and once called the most beautiful girl in the world, is dead at 81 in Santa Monica, Calif. She is shown in a 1950 photo and early in her stage career. She figured in a sensational murder case six decades ago, when her husband was tried in the fatal shooting of a former suitor.

POLLUTION BEATER—This unusual vehicle is the Urbanina, an electric car developed in Pisa, Italy. The non-air polluting car weighs 750 pounds, including 100 pounds of batteries. It has a top speed of 30 mph and travels 33 miles without recharging. It has only one door, but the turret-shaped body can be rotated so occupants can get out either side. The "inventor" says he has orders for 6,500 at about $800 each.

Miss Peggy Neal Is Complimented With Tea On Sunday

Miss Peggy Neal, bride-elect of Sunday afternoon, January 22, Mrs. Charles A. Neal and Mrs. Ed W. Kincer, sons of the honoree, were hostesses for the event held at the Ray home in Mayfield.

In the receiving line were the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Bill Neal, her grandmother, Mrs. Lowell Ray, and the hostess, Mrs. Ray.

Miss Neal chose to wear from her trousseau an original model of pink double knit with pink lace trim. At her shoulder was pinned an orchid corsage trimmed with orchid and pink contrasting ribbon.

The tea table was overlaid with a white cloth and held silver and crystal appointments. An arrangement of pink, yellow, orange and white flowers in a crystal bowl with pink candles burning in crystal holders were centered on the table. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the refreshments.

Mrs. Ed Kincer presided at the silver punch bowl and Mrs. James Boyd assisted with the serving.

The guest register was kept by Miss Kathy Ray and Miss Lana Ray, cousins of the bride-elect.

Approximately seventy guests called between the hours of two and four o'clock in the afternoon. Among the out of town guests

Mrs. Ralph Woods Hostess For Meet Of PEO Chapter

Twelve members and two guests of the PEO Chapter at the P. E. O. Chapter enjoyed a delightful luncheon meeting on Thursday in the home of Mrs. Ralph Woods, who was assisted in serving by her sister, Mrs. Mary Harless. Also were Mrs. Genevieve Thompson, Chapter IV, Ames, Iowa, and Mrs. Beverly Foster, Chapter BB, Old, Nebraska.

The occasion marked the Founders' Day of the Stateshood, which was organized on January 21, 1869, on the campus of Iowa Wesleyan College at Mount Pleasant, Iowa. The organization, dedicated to philanthropic and educational projects, now numbers approximately 150,000 members. There are now fifteen chapters in Kentucky, the last chapter being organized recently in Bowling Green, becoming the second such group in that city.

The program committee chairman, Mrs. Alfred Lindsey, introduced the program. Mrs. W. J. Puman played an appropriate melody of Stephen Foster's songs. Mrs. Henry McKelvie, by request for "Founders' Day," repeated the program she had presented at the 1966 State Convention of the Stateshood. Her topic was "Vision in Perception."

The next meeting of the Chapter will be on February 4 in the home of Mrs. Edward Nunnlee.

The best man was Harrison Shields of Pittsburgh, Pa. Groomsmen were John C. Osborne, brother-in-law of the bride, Knoxville, Tenn., Albert Allen of Pittsburgh, Pa., and John J. Walsh of New York.

The bridal couple spent their honeymoon at Hot Springs, Virginia, and are now at home at 628 Carriage Circle, Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Ludlum is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Bennett Pennebaker of Cookeville and the granddaughter of Mrs. Marie Mayo Prince of Cookeville and the late Dr. Prince of Chicago, and of Mrs. Frederick Franklin Pennebaker of Cunningham, Ky., and the late Mr. Pennebaker.

The bride was born in Murray, Ky., where her father was a member of the Department of Biology at Murray State for thirteen years. She received her Bachelor's degree from the University of Kentucky where she was president of Chi Omega sorority. She was fashion editor of The Nashville Tennessean until the last three years when she was with DuPont and Company in New York City as fashion consultant.

A BIG DAY—It's a big day for Tony Cullen of Gadsden, Fla., as he celebrates it in Jacksonville with marriage to Annette Sloan of Oneonta. A bit earlier both graduated from Jacksonville State University, and just before that he was commissioned a U.S. Army second lieutenant.

Dear Abby

Strong Will Power Accomplishes Plenty

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You are my last hope. I am 29, considered intelligent, a lot of fun, and everyone admires my jolly, outgoing personality. I have had a few dates, but no man has ever taken me seriously. I am the "pal, buddy and pig sister" the man come to for advice about the girls they could "care about."

To get to the point, I weighed myself yesterday for the first time since September, 1965, and the needle hit the highest number and just stayed there. It was one of those "expensive bathroom scales, but it goes up to 300. Need I say more?

I have played Santa Claus at our office Christmas party for the last time, Abby. In plain language, call you give me a diet? I can stay on? Don't tell me to see a doctor. The last one I went to weighed more than I did.

FAT AND MISERABLE
DEAR FAT: If you want my advice, DON'T tell me what NOT to do. You MUST see a doctor! Find a thin one if a fat one inspires no confidence. But follow his instructions to the letter—and no cheating.

Don't expect miracles. It will take all the will power and self-control you can muster. But anything that's worth having is worth working for. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior in high school and my parents still treat me like I was two years old.

PAPER, UNDER $3 is the news about this bit, one of a collection modeled in London at the British Millinery Institute's spring showing. The paper is coated and colored gaily. (Contemporary) against his wishes? Or should I wear it and tell him it's a "new" one? He's never seen it and wouldn't know the difference. I just can't see buying another one.

VIRGIL'S BRIDE
DEAR BRIDE: If you hadn't mentioned the gown in the first place, you could have quietly worn it to marry Virgil. But since you DID mention it, and Virgil vetoed it, don't wear it.

"To do so against his wishes would be unwise. And to try to fool him would be worse. P. S. If "something happens," and this wedding doesn't come off, don't mention the gown to the next one.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69705, Los Angeles, Cal. 90068. For a personal, unpublished reply, inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Even the ash tray rides smoother in Chevrolets

When you're down at your dealer's trying out a new Chevrolet, be sure you pull out the ash tray. Notice how nice and easy it glides, never hanging up or even scraping. The reason is, it rides on ball bearings. Four shiny little ball bearings. (Take the tray all the way out and you'll see them.) You say you don't even smoke? Then look at it this way. That ash tray is a symbol of the way we make cars: Paying extra attention to the little things as well as the big ones, as a way of making extra sure your '67 Chevrolet gives you that sure feeling

Execution, Exile Thins Castro Ranks

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
UPI Latin American Editor

Execution, exile and banishment are rapidly thinning the ranks of Fidel Castro's original collaborators.

Fewer and fewer of the men who helped Castro create a Communist power in the Americas remain in top positions.

One of the most recent to be banished was Efigenio Ameijeiras, the former Havana cab driver who became deputy chief of the armed forces under Raul Castro, Fidel's brother.

In removing him from his post last fall as No. 2 man in the armed forces, and also in expelling him from the central committee of Cuba's Communist party, Castro accused Ameijeiras of leading "a disorderly life" in other words, he was living it up too much.

Select Force.

Ameijeiras was one of the group of 82 men whom Castro led on an invasion of Cuba from Mexico in 1956 aboard the yacht Granma. About 26 of them were killed by President Fulgencio Batista's army and air force on landing. A number were captured. Many of the rest scattered. Castro succeeded in leading a group into the Sierra Maestra of Oriente Province.

Castro has consistently referred to them as "the 12 survivors" of the Granma.

The 12 men apparently were the following: Fidel Castro, Raul Castro, Miran Almeida, Ernesto Che

Knoop, 34, leaves his arraignment in Los Angeles after being charged with faking his drowning in Lake Mead, Nev., in 1964, an act that resulted in his wife collecting $10,000 double indemnity insurance and Social Security benefits. TV CAMEOS: The Avengers

Diana and Pat Come Swooping Back

By MEL HEIMER

LOVE IS hotter the second time around, according to the Tin Pan Alley aria—and Diana Rigg and Patrick Macnee have their fingers crossed in the hope that the same yardstick can be applied to TV.

Diana and Pat, a couple of British actors with that great background of repertory and the province that gives English performers such an edge on Americans, are the stars of "The Avengers," the immensely successful spy adventure series that ABC-TV brought to the States last spring.

With Miss Rigg as the karate-practicing Emma Peel and Macnee playing undercover agent John Steed who would be happier as a Regency buck in the reign of George III, the show turned out to be witty, satirical and exciting—but it had, after all, only come in as a late-season replacement and when summer arrived, "The Avengers" vanished.

EVEN over at ABC, where most of the executives had become fans of the program, the resultant public response wasn't entirely expected. Thousands of letters poured into the network's New York headquarters and into TV newspaper and magazine editors' offices. The tone of the messages was to the point: bring back "The Avengers" or we'll stop watching ANYTHING on your old network.

ABC didn't have to be hit on the head more than once—so come Jan. 20 (10-11 p.m., EST), Emma and John will be cavorting around on the idiot screen once more, playing the lead guys in style. The producers' high hopes don't seem unwarranted, since spy shows still are high in the ratings, as witness "U.N.C.L.E." and "I Spy."

The program's stars did not, of course, blossom overnight. Tall, freckled, auburn-haired Diana (she says her weight "fluctuates") is a Yorkshire girl, raised in India, who attended the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art for two years, modeled for a while and finally hooked on with the Royal Shakespeare Company at Stratford-on-Avon, where she went from bit parts to star roles in five years. When she played Adriana in "The Comedy of Errors" at a Royal Command performance in Windsor Castle, the TV people went after her for the Emma Peel role.

Diana Rigg is pure "mod" and Patrick Macnee is right out of a Victorian album—but they mesh beautifully to make "The Avengers" one of the best spy series.

MACNEE is a bit more familiar to American audiences. He toured here in the late 1950s with the Old Vic troupe, went to Hollywood for a part in "Les Girls" and stayed there for four years, doing most of the top TV dramatic programs. Indeed, Patrick still owns a house in Malibu Beach.

The tall, hazel-eyed Briton (he's Scots-English) is 44 and has played John Steed since the series began; actually, the role was created for him, since many of his tastes and habits of speech and dress are similar to the agent's. Macnee, Eton-educated, started acting in school when he played Queen Victoria—but there's nothing effete about him. During World War II he was commander of a Royal Navy torpedo boat growing the North Sea.

HE'S a cousin of David Niven, with whom he appeared in "The Elusive Pimpernel," and early in the 1950s he lived in Canada for two years while starring in a TV series, "The Moonstone." Actress Catherine Woodville is his wife and whenever they can, they flee their London flat to go horseback-riding in the English countryside.

She Couldn't Believe What Was Happening The Marriage Chest by Mary Paradise

From the novel published by Coward-McCann, Inc. 1966. Copyright © 1965 by D. E. Edm. Distributed by King Features Syndicate

CHAPTER 25
JUANA'S birthday proved to have been a strange and melancholy day for everyone. Except perhaps for Raymond who said he had had a fabulous time exploring the city.

Immediately after dinner Lucie said that she was going to bed. She had a bad headache and intended to take some pills.

Patrick went up to her a little later. Emily found the thought of sleep impossible. She wandered into the courtyard, trying to think of nothing but the balmy night air, the cool trickle of water, and the sound of pumme. She lingered in the fragrant night air, and knew why she had lingered when Patrick came out. It might seem that she had been waiting for him, although that thought hadn't come into her consciousness until now.

"Why aren't you in bed, Emily?"

"Why aren't you? You didn't sleep last night, either."

"I saw you light in the studio. Do you work well when you work such long hours?"

He flung down the match he had struck to light his cigarette.

"You know damn well I don't. He added, "You know too much."

"Too much and not enough. What is wrong with Lucie? It can't be jealousy of you and me. She couldn't have got as hot as this just since my arrival. She looks unbalanced."

"She's on the verge of a breakdown, I think. Patrick said tiredly.

"No. Emily. You've only been one more stick on a fire that was lit on before we were married. I suppose I was flustered then when she couldn't wait to look at any other woman. I didn't know what that sort of nature would be like to live with. Lucie is chronically unhappy. She's everything suspicious, mistrustful, unsecure. I don't know who or what's done it to her. Hannah, I suppose. Hannah's a great many wonderful things, but maternity doesn't shine among them. On Lucie wasn't true when at first. She tried. She's so bewildered and mixed-up I tried too I shouldn't be talking a you like this."

"Patrick! Emily could say no more than his name."

"I've been dippant and facetious with you. I tried to believe I was hitting my feelings. I don't suppose I deceived you. She snook her head. "If you had, I'd have wanted to kill you."

His eyes glinted with brief amusement.

"What a very direct person you are."

"Never mind what I am. What are we to do?"

"Stop trying to do the impossible. It's time, Emily. He said very soberly. "It really is."

time. It's our turn to be happy. The way we were that day in Toledo. It was happiness for you, wasn't it?"

"Oh, yes. Oh, yes," she whispered.

"I haven't been in Lucie's bed for three years. It's another thing she's come to hate. It's always hated, I suspect. I have to tell you this because I love you."

He didn't attempt to touch her. He was clutched and she guessed he had exercised for years. Her own was less strong. She knew that in a moment she would be in his arms even though every window of the Casa de Flor had its avid witness.

"We can go away," he went on. "But there's Juana. How can we leave Juana with a mother like that? Do you see now the truth of what I told you when you arrived?"

"Yes, I do. And you were right to be angry with me for coming. I have only aggravated the situation. Oh, Patrick. She was beginning to tremble. "It's a queer house. We don't belong here either of us. But we can't abandon Juana. And Hannah."

"Hannah is an old woman who's reaping the whirlwind."

good luck at herself and not much liked what she's seen. People do that when they're suffering from a mortal illness. Why do you imagine she sent for you?"

"Because I remind her of Dolly. Emily answered promptly. "Oh—you think she did Dolly some wrong. That was the opportunity she seized when she came to Spain."

Patrick said, "I'm certain of it. He was disturbed and unhappy. "I'm fond of Hannah. I dislike dipping into other people's secrets. They're their own property, and private. But I think there's no alternative."

"Something about that noise in the Calle de Patina?" Emily had a queer feeling of dread. "It was the thing you found out in Madrid."

"The beginning of it. I must know who the owner of that house is. I couldn't find out today because the land offices had shut. But first thing in the morning."

"What will you do first thing in the morning?" came Raymond's drawing voice behind them.

How long had he been there? He wore soft shoes, like his aunt. He might have heard their entire conversation.

Patrick gave him a long, level look.

"You do have a habit of popping up, don't you? It must be a family characteristic."

"Who says the wind raps the whirlwind. Hannah's been a deliberate and dedicated sower."

"What are you talking about, Patterson's tyranny? She is a tyrant, you know. A tyrant in soft shoes, sneaking. But I suppose that's inevitable after so many years together."

"I mean much more than that," Patrick said grimly. "Apart from Patterson, Hannah has ruined Fabrice and Lucie simply with her dominating personality and her fixed ideas. She may have done it unconsciously, but that doesn't make her deserve sympathy, although she has a way of getting round your affections, the old devil. She's a very powerful woman and I should think she's had her own way all her life."

"Not while she was young!" Emily protested. "She had nothing. She had to take orders from other people."

"Can you imagine her doing that?"

"No. I can't. But she must have had to, in a compromising sort of way, until there was some opportunity to seize."

"Exactly."

"Do you mean coming to Spain after Dolly was the opportunity she was waiting for?"

"She turned it to her own advantage, didn't she?" Patrick said earnestly.

"I know she met Ferdie and married. When are you trying to tell me?"

"I think the old girl's had a change of heart. She's taken a turn here-tomorrow."

Before Emily had accused him of eyes to the darkness outside she saw the movement among the clipped privet hedges. Then she heard Patrick's voice. "Get up! Quickly!" The story continued here-tomorrow.

Big Dalmation Stands Vigil Over Body Of Chihuahua

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) - If dogs can cry, Duke is sobbing. His heart is broken. Duke is a dalmation - 100 pounds of irregular black polka dots on white. He's a friendly canine and four years ago he "adopted" a homeless little chihuahua.

Whenever the chihuahua got into trouble, Duke was there. "Duke used to get him out of the street when he ran out," said Duke's owner, Jack Hamel. "Duke would handle him like he was a cat, grabbing him by the nape of the neck."

But Tuesday Duke apparently didn't move fast enough and the chihuahua was struck and killed by a car.

Duke dragged the body off the street and began a patient, tender vigil over his little friend. Motorists saw the stationary dalmation. Duke is a dalmation - 100 pounds of irregular black polka dots on white. He's a friendly canine and four years ago he "adopted" a homeless little chihuahua.

In the afternoon, Hamel came and took Duke home. But at nightfall, Hamel discovered Duke was missing.

Wednesday, motorists saw a familiar sight.

WEATHER ...

Rockie Wednesday night, dropping up to four feet of new snow and triggering avalanches. One of the heaviest snowfalls in recent years was reported in Utah where Alta ski resort measured 35 inches on the ground. Up to two feet of snow was reported in Colorado's mountains.

A blizzard spawned by cold air moving across the southwest ripped through the Owens, Okla. area Wednesday night, tearing down power lines and injuring a family of four. A twister also damaged several buildings in Sequoyah and Foyt, Okla., and caused a power failure at Claremore. High winds believed to have been a tornado also hit Clinton, Okla. and Tulsa was hit by heavy rain and hail.

A Braniff 707 jet airliner slid off an icy runway Wednesday night at the Kansas City Mid-Continent International Airport, but no injuries were reported.

Because of icy roads, hazardous driving warnings were posted in parts of Arizona, New Mexico, Wyoming, Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Ohio. More than four inches of snow were expected to fall from Kansas to lower Michigan with some parts of Illinois getting as much as eight inches.

Snow Hits Chicago

The snow-fest heavily in Chicago, smothering economic traffic while cutting visibility near the downtown area to less than a city block. Officials at O'Hare International Airport reported that although snowfall was heavy and visibility severely limited, traffic was normal.

A fog that covered parts of New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania Wednesday caused the closing of three major airports, including Kennedy International, LaGuardia and Newark, but all three resumed normal operations at daylight today.

Following on the heels of the Midwest snowstorm is a cold air mass which plummeted temperatures to 34 below zero at Thief River Falls and 21 below at Bemidji, both in Minnesota.

In direct contrast, mild weather was reported over the Gulf and Atlantic coast with Miami Beach recording 73 degrees. Pacific Coast weather eased back to normal following floods and mud slides caused by unusual rains.

Economic Report Highlights Given

WASHINGTON (AP) - Here are the highlights of President Johnson's economic report.

THE ECONOMY - "Prosperity is everywhere evident. But prosperity is never without problems." Major problems include 3 million workers still without jobs, 3 per cent inflation in 1966, a continuing dollar drain, interest rates still too high and money too tight, depressed housing industry.

POLICIES - To solve these problems, Johnson is proposing a 6 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes, to take hold at midyear. Higher taxes will restrain inflationary demands from consumers and businesses and allow the independent Federal Reserve Board to lower interest rates and make more credit available for housing. Johnson said he was "confident" the board would respond.

OUTLOOK - Gross National Product GNP up 4.7 billion in 1967 to a record $78 billion. About $30 billion of the growth in real output, about $17 billion in higher prices. Cost-of-living up about 2.5 per cent, compared to 3 per cent in 1966. Personal income up 6.5 per cent, compared to 8.4 per cent in 1966. Profits up only 1.5 per cent after a gain of 8 per cent last year. Unemployment steady at about 3.9 per cent.

CONSUMPTION - Spending to rise about $30 billion, somewhat less than last year. Tax increase would cut consumer incomes, but increased social security benefits would add to incomes of the elderly.

WAR - Spending for the war in Vietnam to rise $10 billion, remaining the hottest ticket in the economy.

HOUSING - To rebound as money cases, but still to fall about $1 billion short of 1966.

PLANT - Spending on new plant and equipment to expand only $3 billion compared to $10 billion in 1966 - "a welcome reprieve." State and Local Governments - Quilts to rise another $8 billion.

Hats off to Rev. William Porter and other members of the council on this big effort.

More work going on out at the new shopping center on South 12th Street.

Mostly earth moving. Things should get going out there by Spring.

The Gross National Product in 1967 is estimated to be about $78 billion dollars. Gross National Product is the total business in the country, production, spending, investments, interest, all of it.

This will be a increase over 1966 of about $47 billion. Much of it will be good growth, however, as a great part of it will be caused by government spending, government caused inflation, government welfare and social programs, etc. which will give the GNP a false image.

Someone said that when a bride walks into the church she is thinking "Aisle, Altar, Hymn".

Fellow drove an old beat up car to the toll gate on the turnpike and the attendant said "Seventy cents." "Sold" exclaimed the registered driver.

When the politicians start brag-ing about how much the GNP has grown over last year, you can remember that much of it was caused by inflation and government spending. There is also a war going on, which is counted in also.

We would settle for less GNP with curbed government spending, less inflation, and no war.

The nice old lady who given the first glass of beer she had ever had and after sipping it for a moment she looked up with a puzzled air and said "How odd, it tastes just like the medicine my husband has been taking for the last twenty years."

Two glamour girls boarded a crowded street car and one whispered to the other: "Watch me

The man who does not read good books has no advantage over the man who cannot read them.

Pushing her way through the studees, she bore down on a gentleman who looked substantial and embarrased. "My dear Mr. Brown," she gushed, "fancy meeting you here. Am I glad to see you - you're getting to be almost a stranger. Oh, am I tired!"

The sedate gent looked up at the girl he'd never seen before and as he arose, he said for all to hear, "Sit down, Bertha, my girl, we don't often see you out on wash day. No wonder you're tired. By the way, don't deliver the washing until Wednesday. My wife's going to the district attorney's office to see if she can get your husband out of jail."
